

Prentice Institute for Global Population and Economy Working Paper Guidelines

Prentice Institute for Global Population and Economy Working Paper Series:

The aim of the Prentice Institute Working Paper series is to share with a wide audience of academics, practitioners and policy-makers new and exciting work and perspectives relating to the strategic planning areas of the Institute, particularly from the social science research community. The main requirement is that the work relates in some way to the research agenda of the Prentice Institute for Global Population and Economy (please see our web page) This can be work in progress or work ready for publication and there are no copyright restrictions regarding the use of material from working papers in future publications (ie, this is a “pre-publication” venue). The primary logic behind the Papers is to both inform and spark political, policy and academic debate, conversation and awareness about the topic at hand.

Any members of Departments affiliated with the Prentice Institute for Global Population and Economy, visitors to the Prentice Institute, participants in conferences and workshops organized by the Prentice Institute, as well as members of, and those working in collaboration with, the Prentice Institute are encouraged to submit their papers to the Working Paper Series.

All Working Papers will be available on our website. Adobe Acrobat Reader DC can be used to read, print, and download the papers. This software is available free from <http://www.adobe.com>

Format for Submission:

- I. Though there is no formal blind refereeing process, the papers will be reviewed by the Director for content, appropriate fit and (where applicable/appropriate) methods, etc. This review may result in a request that the paper be lightly edited, and authors may be asked to make changes before they are placed on the web site. The Director reserves the right to decline papers that are not considered sufficiently well developed or relevant to ACSRC themes.
