

The Religious Studies Department and the Religious Studies Interfaith Fund present

Ira Robinson

Professor, Religions and Cultures and Chair & Director of the Concordia Institute for Canadian Jewish Studies, Concordia
University

How Antisemitism has Shaped the Lives of Jewish Canadians

As Anthony Julius stated, antisemitism “is the background noise against which we [Jews] make our lives.” For the last century and more, antisemitism has become and remains an important component of the historical memory and contemporary consciousness of Jewish Canadians as well as of the cultural and political discourse of Canada as a whole. In this lecture, we will carefully examine how antisemitism has shaped and continues to shape the world in which Jewish Canadians live both in terms of their collective communal life and their multiple interactions with their fellow Canadians.

Wednesday, September 13, 2017

TH201

7:00 p.m.

University of Lethbridge

