

Martha Mathurin-Moe

*Vice Provost, Accessibility,
Belonging and Community*

Originally from the Caribbean Island of St. Lucia, I have spent the past twelve years in Regina, Saskatchewan. Before coming to University of Lethbridge, I worked for the Government of Saskatchewan in the Public Service Commission as the manager of talent development. Previously, I worked for the University of Regina for over eight years in international education where I held several roles, including the associate director for Study Abroad. My background is a bit of a mosaic; I have an undergraduate degree in psychology, a Master of Education in education psychology and my doctoral studies are in curriculum and instruction. I have also spent several years in banking and finance and human resources.

My vision is to create a sustainable, impactful ABC framework that makes our campus inclusive and safe for all. It is about creating a University that is committed to Truth and reconciliation, that is representative of the community we serve. A University that is an institutional leader committed to doing the complex work on Anti-racism, Decolonization and Indigenization.
