

For immediate release — Thursday, February 26, 2026

Faculty of Education to launch collection named for Annette Fox-BruisedHead

A new collection in the Faculty of Education's Curriculum Laboratory at the University of Lethbridge is amplifying Indigenous voices in education while honouring a key figure who has helped guide the Faculty's commitments to truth and reconciliation.

WHAT: Launch of the Naato'saaki (Sunwoman) Annette Fox-BruisedHead Collection

WHEN: Friday, Feb. 27, 2026, 1:30 p.m.

WHERE: Curriculum Laboratory (11th level of the ULethbridge Library)

Naato'saaki (Sunwoman) Annette Fox-BruisedHead (BSc '00, BEd '02, MEd '10) has made a lasting impact at the University of Lethbridge through her work as an Indigenous Education Consultant and sessional instructor with the Faculty of Education. With nearly 25 years of experience in southern Alberta schools — as a teacher, central office administrator and now as principal of Lethbridge Collegiate Institute — she is known for fostering collaboration, deepening understanding and building meaningful connections across communities.

The collection features nearly 200 books, with 31 unique titles and multiple copies of each to support group or class study. The titles are all by Indigenous authors and the entire collection was sourced from Indigenous-owned businesses.

-- 30 --

Contact:

Danica Ferris
Communications Specialist, Faculty of Education
604-997-4457 (cell)
danica.ferris@uleth.ca

Our University's Blackfoot name is Iniskim, meaning Sacred Buffalo Stone. The University is located in traditional Blackfoot Confederacy territory. We honour the Blackfoot people and their traditional ways of knowing in caring for this land, as well as all Indigenous Peoples who have helped shape and continue to strengthen our University community.